Inch Of Rain Falls During Morning Hours

COVERS LARGE SECTION OVER NORTH PLAINS

Farmers Needed Added Moisture, Following Hot Wind During the Past Week

WHEAT IS GOOD

Busy Time for Farmers as the Season Advances Following Good Rains of Month

Rain started falling early this morning, and at 7:30 o'clock measured one inch of moisture. An inch fell from Texico to Miami. A half inch was reported from Tulia.

The rain fell gently throughout the morning hours. The government station at Amarillo predicts local showers in the Panhandle throughout today.

The rain came just at the right time to do the most good. The hot winds of this week had badly baked the ground in most sections of the county.

Farm work went into high the past week following the heavy rains of two weeks ago, but most farmers welcomed the rain of this morning which will make the ground work much easier.

The Panhandle sweltered Monday as a hot wave shot the mercury to 108 degrees at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Fortunately the heat wave was not of long duration. The temperature dropped considerably on Tuesday as the wind swung to the north. The temperature stood at 60 degrees yesterday morning.

Farmers have been very busy the past week as the fields dried sufficiently to start listing and planting. The big job immediately is to get rid of the weeds which shot out of the ground following the heavy rains of two weeks ago.

More and more favorable reports are being received on the wheat crop, as favorable weather continues. There will be large sections of the county which will produce 10 to 20 bushels of wheat this year if the weather continues favorable.

70 Amarillo Men Sent Here by WPA For Various Jobs

WPA forces in Canyon were increased this week by 70 men who were transferred here from Amarillo. 48 of these men were added to the campus projects, and 22 to the street widening force.

Definite instructions were received to start excavation on the museum basement next Monday, and all of the 70 Amarillo men will be used on this project. These men are brought here owing to the large amount of work which is ready for local men, and the district officials did not wish to interfere with local projects while the basement is being dug.

Members of the County Executive Committee are called by Mr. Warwick to meet next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the court house for the purpose of making assessments on the candidates for the cost of the primary elections, arranging the names on the ballots, appointing election judges, and other business which is required for holding the primary elections. All precinct chairmen are urged to attend this meeting.

The candidates will have until June 20th in which to pay the assessments. Those who fail to pay the assessment will not appear on the official primary election ballot.

Notes on New Soil Conservation Program

By W. H. UPCHURCH, County Agent

There are many misunderstandings in regard to the new Soil Conservation program. Many farmers are in line for full compliance and payments for 1936, yet are undecided because of a poor understanding of the program.

The confusion of changing over from the old AAA crop control program to the new farm program under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, has naturally resulted in quite a lot of misunderstanding.

The fact that a payment is to be made with respect to the 1936 wheat crop under the old program as compensation for compliance last fall, in the seeding of the present wheat crop, and at the same time a payment may be earned under the new program, for the year 1936, leads to additional chances for confusion.

There need be no misunderstanding once it is well understood that there is no connection between the two programs. Payments for soil conservation under the new program have no connection with payments made for compliance with the old crop control program.

A farmer may have complied in all respects with the crop control program which was terminated Jan. 6, 1936, and at the same time he may decide to earn payments under the new program for soil conservation in the year 1936. Another thing to keep in mind is that the new program is not a wheat program or a cotton program. It is a soil program and follows the calendar year and not the crop year. Some farmers have been under the impression that the 15% of crop land which is diverted this year cannot be seeded to wheat this fall.

Acreage diverted in 1936 may be contoured followed for wheat this fall (1937 crop). Land on which feed crop is grown in 1936 may be used for the diverted acreage in 1937.

A good rule to remember is that the new program attempts to follow only the best farming practices for the section where a farm is located. The provision of contour following 15% of our wheat land is not a cure-all for all our troubles but merely one of the improved farm practices that has proved to be a help in preventing crop failures. This in turn helps to prevent soil erosion because our worst soil erosion occurs on land where no crop has been grown the previous year.

Emergency treatment of the soil to prevent wind erosion is only a temporary expedient made necessary because the soil happens to be in a condition to blow. A heavy growth of wheat stubble is one of the best preventatives of wind erosion. A heavy growth of wheat stubble cannot be secured in seasons of short rainfall unless we have a reserve of moisture stored in the soil. Therefore the

Bill of Senator Small Is Used For Basis of Conservation Work in the Panhandle

OFFICIALS ATTEND

Conference Between Local and Federal Officials Held Tuesday and Yesterday

A permanent basis for soil conservation, with co-operation between the Soil Conservation Service, H. H. Fennell, director, and the 14 county wind erosion districts of the Panhandle is being worked out and submitted to Washington for approval.

County Agent W. H. Upchurch, County Commissioners W. E. Bennett, G. B. Heath, and J. J. Bauer attended a meeting in Amarillo Tuesday, and returned yesterday for a final meeting before the agreed memorandum was sent to Washington for approval. Mr. Fennell has been working for several months upon a permanent policy for soil conservation, which will mean much to the Panhandle in years to come.

All governmental agencies which are in existence in the Panhandle had representatives at Tuesday's meeting.

Senator Clint Small, author of the state conservation bill now effective in several Panhandle counties, spoke Tuesday.

One of the most cheering notes of the parley was the announcement that the Federal Land Bank intends to begin immediate refinancing.

Bonus Payments to Start Monday From Dallas Postoffice

Registered letters to ex-service men in Texas containing their compensation bonds, will start from the Dallas postoffice next Monday, June 15th. It is contemplated by postal authorities that forwarding from Dallas will be made at intervals so as not to cause too much confusion in the regular mail service.

The regulations governing the bonus bonds are simple.

The bonds are registered in the name of the ex-service man, and no one else may receive them. Letters cannot be forwarded.

The bonds will bear interest, and many ex-service men will keep the bonds.

If the ex-service man wishes to cash the bonds immediately, proper certificates are to be made out at the postoffice, and the bonds returned to Dallas without cost to the holder. A check will come from the Dallas postoffice to those who return the bonds for exchange.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 PER YEAR

Entered at the postoffice at Canyon, Texas, as second class matter. Published weekly at office, 1513 Fourth Avenue, Canyon, Texas.

The News was highly complimented by scores of readers on the editorial last week regarding the drought. "We simply belly-ached too much in order to get relief money, and should be willing to take the results," stated a prominent citizen. As viewed by most people, this section is in a good way to get started on a scientific soil conservation program if the people will not get too hostile over the government's program. After a period of distress passes, we can look back and see just how many silly things were said and done, and how the truth has been distorted for various reasons. But there is one thing sure and certain, every intelligent man in the Panhandle should give his full support to the conservation measures which are being advocated. It is customary in this nation to waste our natural resources before starting any sort of movement to protect them. The soil is the great natural resource of this section. It is the greatest soil in Texas, if properly preserved, and given a half square deal by the laws of nature. During the past few years, nature has fallen down on the job. But the intelligence of man can step in and greatly help out the situation. Contour cultivation is the first step to preserve all of the moisture which falls, and when every acre in cultivation in the Panhandle is cultivated in this manner it will not matter so much when those dry years come and the rainfall drops to 12 or 15 inches.

The primary election in Texas is only six weeks off, but so far little interest is being taken in any of the campaigns. While many voters have definitely made up their minds regarding various races, yet they are making no fuss about the different campaigns.

Even the candidates are making little effort to stir up a scrap. Perhaps that is a good omen. Maybe the old-fashioned hell-raising campaigns will pass out of the picture. The average voter has long ago been convinced that the nation continues to rock along some how or other, regardless of who is elected. But government will be very much better when the voters will lay aside their prejudices and vote for the best qualified candidates, regardless of their personal likes or dislikes for the individual. It takes a brave man to do this, yet some men actually will do it, as was witnessed two years ago when a prominent business man made the following statement: "I thoroughly despise Mr. — as a man, and have never been able to agree with him on many subjects, but I am for him in this race because he is qualified to hold the job. I disagree with many of his views, but I know he has the ability to get things done that the people want done." That is real Americanism, and if all people were so broad-minded, this nation would never be in danger.

A great Republican organ has just issued this statement: "Lost foreign trade of the United States would have paid the Federal Relief bill." Very true, perhaps, but who is responsible? Most of the foreign trade was lost during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations when the tariff was hiked. Trade agreements are now being made, not sufficiently fast to please all of the people, but tariff is more than a mere political question. The American workman who comes into competition with the highly efficient Jap, is up against an individual who does not complain at working 16 to 18 hours per day for a few cents, and is content to live on rice and spoiled fish with none of the American conveniences of life. No one in this nation wants to subject American labor to free trade with such a people. There are many, many angles to the question of trade between nations. The loss of the foreign markets of this nation is no doubt very greatly responsible for the national depression, but to work this problem out is not such an easy matter. Manufacturers successfully killed AAA, the farmers' tariff, but demand the same high protection for their own products. Regardless of the party which wins in November, to regain foreign trade and put American labor to work is the great national problem.

It is rather amusing to see all of the schemes which are being presented to extract the bonus money from the ex-service men when their bonus start coming in. The schemers fail to realize that those who will receive the bonus are mature men, a large part of them in business for themselves or that they hold positions of responsibility. Page after page has been printed in some newspapers as to the handling of the bonus bonds, yet the instructions from the government are printed in big type, about a dozen lines, which may be read and digested in less than a minute. Of course a small percent of the men will waste this money, but on the whole

Neighboring Governors Talk It Over

Apparently forgetting for the time the approaching Republican national convention, which many political observers believe will nominate him for the presidency, Gov. Alfred M. Landon, of Kansas, left, is shown chatting with Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri. The occasion was the national convention of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes, in Kansas City, Mo. Both neighboring executives spoke on the convention program.

the money will be a blessing to pay old debts, buy necessities of life which have been denied, or invested in worthy enterprises. Large numbers will keep the bonds for the interest they will pay. In fact, there are few investments today which are more attractive than government bonds in spite of the low interest they pay.

Perhaps the reader will know even before The News is printed which man the Republicans will select to oppose President Roosevelt in the November election. Republican leaders have been through a severe test to keep down fights between the various candidates, and the weight of all responsible men in the party will be for a peaceful session. It is more and more evident that the leaders regard the November task as hopeless. While the East is not satisfied with Landon, it is quite evident that he will be accepted by that section as being the only man who has a possible chance of breaking the farm strength of the middle West. It is also very evident that the financial leaders will not weep if Landon is slaughtered and removed from the 1940 fray when the Republicans feel certain of winning as the Democrats will be without the magnetic leadership of President Roosevelt. Politics is a funny game.

In spite of the criticism which is being made of the old age assistance plan in Texas, checks will go out on July 1st to those who have qualified. The federal government has approved the Texas plan, and sent it's part of the money to meet the first pension payments. The average of the first checks will be about $20. This does not mean that none of the old people will receive as much as $30, which is the limit under the federal law. The Texas law was written to pay the pensioners according to their needs. A negro or Mexican in South Texas does not need as much assistance as do the white people of North Texas and West Texas. No one claims that the pension plan will suit every one. No plan could be devised that would please all people, but the plan in Texas is as good as has been adopted by any of the states under the restrictions of the federal law.

It is stated that producers receive only about 36 cents out of every dollar which is paid for their products by the ultimate consumers. The distribution system, or rather lack of distribution system is responsible for this small percent of the dollar going to the producer. A great improvement is necessary in our system of distributing the necessities of life. Of course the middlemen and distributors are necessary but they are taking too large a percent of the dollar. This is not a charge of too great a profit being made by any one of individual in these transactions, but a lack of economical system which will reduce the cost of distribution in order that the consumer will have more money to spend with the producer. It is charged that there is great under consumption in this nation contributing a single cent toward the support of the government. It is surprising just how large these two classes really are. If government is to be a success and function for the benefit of the people, it must have an adequate income.

Brownfield Herald: Chas. Armour Guy of the Lubbock dailies says that it makes an editor feel real good to be thanked for services rendered, once in a while. You bet your boots. But it kinder galls one to go out to a play that you have given two or three columns of free advertising, sometimes on the front page, and everybody is thanked and rethanked, but the paper is entirely forgotten, and perhaps it rendered the greatest service in getting out a crowd—and the money—than any other individual mentioned. That incident happened right here in Brownfield not over three weeks ago.

The tragic thing about the performances of a silly ass like "Congressman" Zioncheck is that many thoughtless people will look upon him as an example of those in public office. Many a hardworking, respectable member of Congress will suffer in the elections unless this bird is thrown into the asylum or jail until he cools off. So many people like the extremes, and like to think all public officials are nearly as bad, although perhaps a little more diplomatic than Zioncheck. In popular elections, mistakes are made by the voters, but the test of their intelligence comes in keeping such reprobates in office.

Donley County Leader: Never find fault because a newspaper fails to give every scrap of news so long as you take no pains to give the paper any information. The average newspaper force is not a bunch of mind readers or mediums. They all get the news the same way a dentist extracts teeth—by digging and pulling.

Congratulations are due Coach Al Baggett for his Coaching School, and to Miss Isabel Robinson for her Art School at the Palo Duro Park. This summer is the first session for these two institutions, both of which are expected to grow from year to year. Making the summer session more and more attractive to advanced students and teachers is the program that has been shaped by Dr. Hill and his able faculty.

A noted newspaper man and journalism teacher is in Canyon this week. The News trusts that every person who writes for The Canyon News will be at the college auditorium Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to hear Prof. John H. Casey in his lecture to those who prepare copy for public print.

Many of the enthusiastic Town-sendites will find the scheme as disappointing in returns as did those who invested their dimes in chain letters.

As Record Rains Swept Dust Bowl

Farmers in the nation's "dust bowl" looked forward to harvest of their first real crop in five years after record rains ended the drought that had stricken the region for four years. This scene showing the inundated railroad station and fields near Friona, Tex., in the Panhandle, was typical. The slow, steady downpour created huge lakes in the once arid region, and halted traffic on many highways.

Coaches and Casey on Program Rotary Club on Tuesday

Members of the staff for the W. T. Coaching School and John H. Casey of the University of Oklahoma were special guests of the Canyon Rotary Club, Tuesday at the luncheon.

Coach Al Baggett announced that the First Annual Coaching School with 175 enrolled, was a great success. Fine work was being accomplished by the visiting coaches, who are recognized authorities in their various lines of activities.

Dr. Harry A. Scott of Rice Institute was selected by the coaches to make a short talk. He highly complimented W. T. on the big job which was being put over in the athletic department. "There is nothing like it in the nation," stated Dr. Scott, who expressed great appreciation in having an opportunity in working in the Coaching School.

"The work accomplished here shows full and complete support on the part of the faculty as well as the entire community. Canyon is a small town; W. T. is not among the large institutions, but it is among the best," stated the speaker. He predicted a great future under the program which was now underway.

Mr. Casey was introduced by Clyde Warwick.

Mr. Casey has spent his life in making a study of small towns and their needs. He complimented Canyon as a clean town. W. T. was called the key of the community in its growth and development. Dr. Hill was complimented for having been connected with the institution for the 26 years of its existence, since college professors and presidents in Oklahoma are changed frequently through politics.

Clyde Warwick was complimented for having continued with the Canyon News for almost 26 years, which is a considerable accomplishment for a newspaper man.

Mr. Casey talked frankly with the business men as to methods used in building up the business of a community. Examples were sighted from various sections of the United States as to the accomplishments of towns where co-operation was shown. "You cannot sell them if you don't get them in," has been found true in all towns.

Mr. Casey suggested a survey of the county in which people are asked to express their frank opinion regarding business affairs of Canyon.

Visitors present were: Cal Farley and Davis Hill of Amarillo; R. B. Fisher of Pampa; Harry S. Taylor, of Portales; J. C. Naylor of Panhandle; Travis Shaw, Cleve Jones, Gerald Brown, Sullivan Laughery, C. H. Jarrett, J. J. Walker, N. E.

Parents Might Well Set the Example

Travelers Ins. Co. Safety Service.

Parents often tell their children to be sure to play on the sidewalk, and if they must cross the street, to be sure that a car isn't in sight and then to use the crosswalk. That's good advice in any family and in any man's town. But how often do parents do the things which they tell their children mustn't be done? Parents frequently are seen dragging their children across streets against red lights or right across in the middle of the block. It is wondered what children sometimes think of their parents. Five minutes after some parent has "laid down the law" he can become a BIG HYPOCRITE. Last year there were more than 1,500 children under the age of four who were killed and 34,000 who were injured in automobile accidents. More than 3,200 between the ages of 5 and 14 were killed and nearly 140,000 were injured. It is important to teach young children to have safe habits and equally important for grownups to practice what they preach.

Senior Class Gift Now On Display In Pioneer Hall

Portraying an autumn round-up scene on the JA ranch, a diorama, gift of the Senior Class of '36, is on display in the west room of Pioneer Hall. It bears the title, "Come and Get It!" a typical expression used by the cooks in charge of the chuckwagons of early days in the Panhandle.

Ben Carlton Mead, well-known artist and illustrator, created the chuckwagon scene for the diorama. Sagebrush, clay, and cedar was collected in the Palo Duro Canyon and shipped to the artist's studio in Chicago to lend a natural effect to the scene. Mr. Mead also sketched the plans for the case.

John A. Gillis of the department of manual arts, assisted by members of his class, constructed the case for the scene. It is 34 inches wide and 66 inches high with a glass section 48 inches long and 18 inches high. The gift cost approximately $250.

According to Mr. Mead, the Century of Progress stimulated the rise of historical dioramas and they are being used by all of the large museums to present history in an interesting manner.

"I think this gift is one of the most valuable and beautiful things in the museum," stated L. F. Sheffy, head of the history department.

West Texas State COACHING SCHOOL

CANYON, TEX.
June 3-10

The First Annual Coaching School for W. T. came to a successful close yesterday. Coach Al Baggett announced to the 175 visiting coaches that the school would be held again next summer, this announcement being greeted with cheers from those who have attended. The school was a great success in every way.

Members of the Buffalo squad were here for a greater part of the school and were used by the visiting coaches in demonstrating their plays. The Buffalo players were highly enthusiastic over the week's training which they had received and the chance to work under the outstanding coaches of the Southwest.

"Dutch" Meyer was the central figure of the Coaching School. His success with the T. C. U. team during the past year has won for himself a national reputation. Working with him was "Bear" Wolf who has been his line coach through the past years.

Carl Voyles of Duke University, Lou Hertenberger of Rice Institute and Blair Cherry of the Amarillo Sandies were the other football coaches. Cherry brought his 1935 State Championship team here for demonstration plays.

A number of motion pictures were shown during the week, including the T. C. U. and S. M. U. game of last fall.

Mr. Voyles gave instruction in track work.

Basketball was demonstrated by Glen Rose of the University of Arkansas, whose team is winner of the Southwestern Conference. The Buffalo squad was used for demonstration in the Burton Gymnasium. Chuck Taylor, trick shot artist gave demonstrations of his ability in handling the ball.

Dr. Harry A. Scott, director of Physical Education of Rice Institute, gave valuable suggestions to the visiting coaches, on the organization of physical education. Coach Baggett was assisted in handling the School by Bob Cox and Marshall May, assistants in W. T.

Diplomas were issued yesterday to the 175 men who had taken the work. About half of the coaches had entered for credit and will be here for the first six weeks of the summer session.

"Play Nite" To Be Each Friday During Session

Every Friday night during the summer term "Play Nite" will be held at the athletic plant.

This entertainment, instituted by athletic director Al Baggett, was introduced to provide entertainment for all ages. Several varieties of sports will be played, and those not desiring to take part in any of these will doubtless find them entertaining from the sidelines.

"Play Nite" is one of the many types of entertainments provided for students who attend the summer school at W. T. All students are urged to attend these nights of fun for the facilities are adequate to provide frolic for all.

Everything is free to the public including basketball games to be played in Burton Gymnasium.

EX-STUDENT DIES IN LUBBOCK HOSPITAL

Mrs. Hal Scott, who attended W. T. last in 1932, died at the Lubbock Sanitarium, May 26. She was formerly Miss Evelyn Wright.

She was buried in the Ralls Cemetery at Ralls, Tex. She is survived by her husband, Hal S. Scott, a son, Gana Wright Scott, her mother, Mrs. Mattie J. Wright, and several brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Scott was a member of the Lloyd Green Allen Scholarship Society while in W. T.

Of course Adam and Eve led a primitive kind of life but they at least had this advantage—they never went into debt by trying to keep up with their neighbors.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says that ripe and green olives contain an abundance of vitamin A. One wonders if corn and hogs contain vitamin AAA.

There was great rejoicing in the ranks of the shoemaking industry when it was reported that Garbo was returning from her visit to Sweden.

Since the representative from Seattle has received so much publicity as an alleged furniture wrecker, apartment owners may give prospective renters the check and Zioncheck.

Statistics show that, in 1934, world rubber shipments totaled 1,010,000 tons and exceeded shipments of all previous years, but that may be stretched a bit.

A man died the other day in a metropolitan city from starvation while he had hundreds of dollars in his pockets. Figure that out, if you can.

The time is here when you may forget all the things you promised yourself during the past year and begin making new promises.

The happiest men are those who always live up to the law and down to their incomes.

At Farm Women's Meeting

More than 8000 women from every state in the Union and 22 foreign countries gathered in Washington, D. C., for the third triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is shown at top as she addressed the meeting. Mrs. Alfred Watt, lower photo, was president of the conference.

Italy's victory over Ethiopia prompted China to buy 60 new Italian bombers, a $1,000,000 order. One hopes American industry does not copy Mussolini's advertising stunt.

Government officials in Canton, China, have forbidden Chinese women to curl their hair, leading us to wonder if they have any power with regard to hats.

That man who was up to his neck in the California tar pit is one of the few who can boast that, for at least part of 1936, he was in the black.

'Talkies' Help Track Criminals

Newest foe of the gangster is specially built camera equipment for making talking pictures of lawbreakers. This camera, which can be operated by persons without technical training, completes identification of a criminal in about 300 feet of film. The pictures will acquaint officers with physical and vocal mannerisms of the "actors." Pictured inspecting the new equipment are, left to right, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police who was not reappointed by Governor Hoffman when his term expired recently, and Capt. Russell A. Snook, and Thomas H. J. Boyle, both of the state police.

As Republican Conclave Opened

One of the most important voices in Republican ranks as the G. O. P. national convention opened in Cleveland was that of Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, chairman of the national committee. Mr. Fletcher, with arms folded, is shown talking to reporters in his hotel room after winding up last-minute preparations for the convention.

Roads of Southwest Dedicated Opening Day

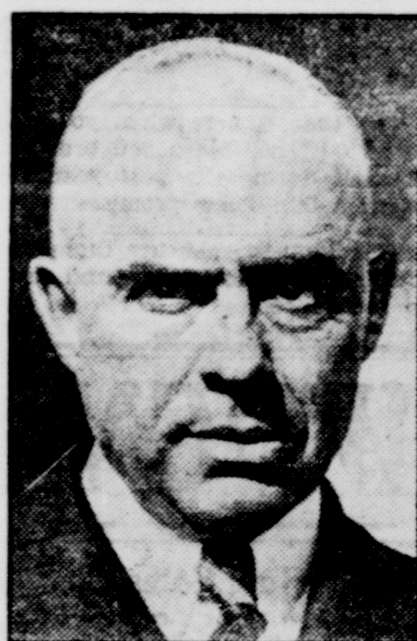

"Roads of the Southwest", nine short sections of which have been reproduced as a part of the Ford Motor Company's exhibit at the Texas Centennial in Dallas, were formally dedicated on opening day, June 6, by the "Cavalcade of Texas", mammoth spectacle. Scores of men, women and children who have parts in the giant production traversed the one-third mile opposite the Ford Exposition building which includes the following historic roads and highways: Santa Fe trail, Old San Antonio, Fort Worth pike, Yuma road, Pan American highway, Magazine street, Butterfield trail, Chisholm trail and Main Street, Dallas.

Col. Knox

Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, has waged a vigorous campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Basing his hopes on complete denunciation of the entire New Deal program, he has elevated himself to a place of real prominence in G. O. P. circles, but party leaders believe he has small chance of being named the candidate this year.

Three other figures at the Republican convention opening were, left to right, C. Bascom Slemp, Miss Margaret E. White and former Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire. Mr. Slemp served as secretary to Calvin Coolidge during his term in office. Attractive Miss White came all the way from Alaska, where she is national committeewoman. Moses, a veteran of political wars, was in Cleveland to aid his friend, Col. Frank Knox, in his battle for the nomination.

Paints Gloomy Farm Picture

Chester C. Davis, agricultural adjustment administrator, is shown arriving at New York on his return from Europe, where he spent six weeks looking for possible U. S. grain markets. "There is not the slightest hope we can regain for some important commodities the great markets here we once enjoyed," Davis told reporters in London.

Sen. Vandenberg

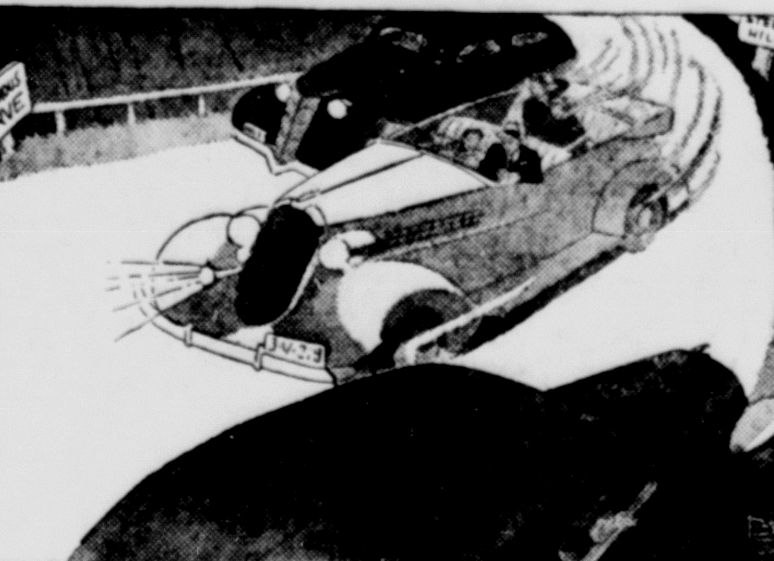

Rapidly gaining prominence through recent attacks on certain New Deal measures, Senator Arthur Hendrik Vandenberg of Michigan generally is regarded as the candidate most likely to obtain the Republican nomination should Governor Landon fail to garner the required number of delegates. No avowed candidate, the senator has announced that he will allow his name to be presented at Cleveland.

BEHIND A DESK—

HIS FIRST CONSIDERATION
IS THE HAPPINESS AND SECURITY OF HIS FAMILY

BUT BEHIND A WHEEL . . .

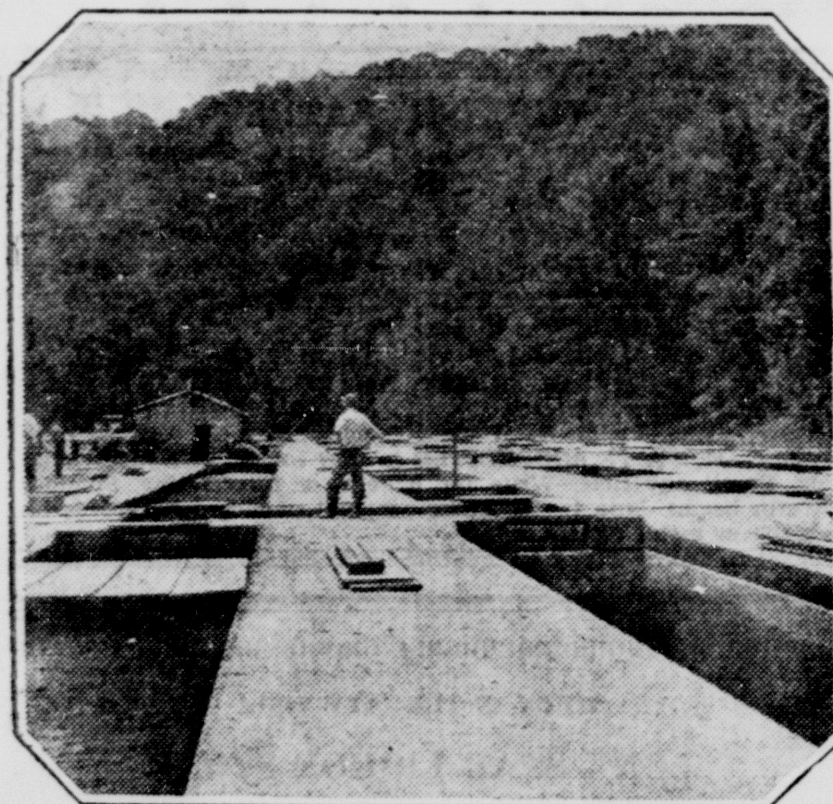

HE GAMBLERS WITH THE LIVES OF HIS FAMILY AND EVERYONE ELSE ON THE ROAD

Traders Ins. Co. Safety Service.

A person at his desk may be the most conservative of individuals—the kind who not only considers a matter once but twice, and is likely to sleep over it, if the matter is really important. The world is full of men and women who are most considerate of the members of their families—people who constantly think of the happiness and security of those dependent upon them. The level-headed and considerate people are regarded the salt of the earth. They aren't the type who would ever get involved in an automobile accident because of carelessness or recklessness on their part. But the level-headed person—the considerate individual—level-headed when it comes to business matters—considerate when it comes to the members of his family, the sick and infirm, is likely to drive carelessly or recklessly when he gets out on the road. In proof of this, drivers are asked to take note of some of their fellow motorists on curves, near the top of hills, or those who cut in and out of traffic—the drivers who rush the light or fail to slow up or stop at stop signs. Such acts distinguish the indifferent or dangerous driver from the good driver. Not all the million drivers who were involved in accidents which killed more than 36,000 and injured around a million last year were of the so-called "smarty" type. Many of those who drove through the red light, on the wrong side of the road, passed on curves, or operated recklessly were persons otherwise level-headed and considerate.

Pennsylvania's Spring Creek Trout Project Pleases Anglers in That Region; Profit Seen in Plan for Other States

The hatchery pools at Spring Creek, pictured at left, swarm with trout in all stages of development. They supply the fish for restocking of the spring branch, at least one trout being replaced in the stream for each one taken. There are 16 of these "raising" ponds—all of which make possible a picture such as the one below.

FLY casters have a special section reserved for their use, as have those partial to spinners and artificial minnows. And consideration is shown the fair sex, too—they have access to an exclusive part of the stream. A pool for children has been opened, and Spring Creek now is an ideal gathering place for the entire family. Trout have been given most attention, but experiments now are being conducted with bass, and results have far exceeded expectations. Sixteen "raising" ponds are open, with others under construction. This is a remarkable undertaking. It points the way to other states that wish to provide their sportsmen with some real fishing, and at the same time assure the coming generation of a place to angle.

BY PHILIP MARTIN

SEVEN MILLION licensed fishermen in the United States are finding it tougher every year to fill their creels.

Pennsylvania has an answer to this problem. It is a project being carried on at Spring Creek, near Bellefonte, in a region of rare scenic beauty.

This spot is known to fishermen the country over as a trout angler's paradise, and is rapidly becoming the mecca of sportsmen from the Keystone and surrounding states.

The new departure in fish conservation is the brain child of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot and O. M. Deibler, state commissioner of fisheries, and was inaugurated in 1934. Increasing numbers of anglers are flocking to Spring Creek to study the remarkable achievement and indulge in their favorite pastime.

"V-type" stone and log deflector dams and other man-made devices dot the mile-long stretch. Improving sections of the stream which are not naturally suitable for good fishing. Normally shallow spots have been deepened, slow moving waters speeded up, and trench breeding places for insects and minnows developed.

NUMEROUS hatchery ponds and pools are situated here, swarming with trout in all stages of development, these being used to restock the stream. A spring which each minute produces 3000 gallons of clear, icy water feeds into the hatcheries.

Barbed hooks are taboo at Spring Creek, and only two of the 15 fish each person is allowed to catch may be kept. These must be 10 inches or longer. Another restriction is that a fisherman may use the stream only five times a year. An accurate tabulation is kept by requiring everyone to register and check out with an official who measures and weighs the angler's catch.

At least one fish is released from the hatchery for each one taken out.

Although every fisherman must be registered, no extra charge is imposed for this service, a regular state fishing license being the only requirement. Buttons are passed out to identify those eligible to use the stream.

U. S. Building Up Farm Experiment Station—Already World's Greatest

BELTSVILLE, Md.—Near this little town, which lies close to the national capital, the United States government operates Beltsville Research Center, a 16,000-acre project, largest experimental farm in the world.

In this great outdoor laboratory, nine Department of Agriculture bureaus at present are conducting experiments. These agencies include the bureaus of animal, plant, and dairy industry; those of agricultural economics, agricultural engineering, entomology and plant quarantine, chemistry and soils; besides the biological survey and food and drug administration of the Forest Service.

Other departments of the government also carry on some activities at the center, and still others are to be moved there soon.

The Beltsville acreage was rich tobacco country before the Revolutionary War; later, much of it went back into forest. Since the Civil War, it had been practically deserted. The government has been acquiring the land since 1933 for its program to eliminate "rural slums."

THE work ranges from studies in animal husbandry and beef and dual-purpose cattle investigations to demonstrations in wild life conservation and restoration. More than 450 men, including some of the best-known scientists in the United States, staff the farm's stock buildings and laboratories. There are more than 50 of these buildings.

In the United States also have been conducted. One of the most successful of these was with Karakul lambs, the experimental flock having shown remarkable development, both in quality of fur and conformation.

The Forest Service is another agency that has been particularly active in experiments at the center.

Largest single building on the project is the three-story animal husbandry laboratory. It provides approximately 1,000,000 square feet of floor space, and houses a group of laboratories dealing with animal nutrition, genetics, meat and wool investigations, and scientific studies involving many types of animals.

The majority of the investigations of the dairy experiment station are planned to continue for years. Most important of those completed was the study made in calf feeding.

Many more Department of Agriculture surveys and investigations are slated for the Maryland project. When they are established, the Beltsville station will be far ahead of any project of its type in number and scope of activities, as well as in actual physical size.

Notes on Soil

best practices are those which regularly save as much as possible of the rainfall. Moisture may be stored in the subsoil during seasons of excess rainfall to guard against seasons of short rainfall.

Other soil conserving practices such as cover crops, and the like, are only attempts to offer a program of sufficient scope to allow any good farmer to adapt his operations to the program of general welfare without too much radical changing of equipment and methods.

Fortunately the practices that offer the best soil erosion control, also offer the best insurance against crop failure.

If the farmers of the Panhandle can forego the temptation to plant all the land in wheat in favorable seasons and make a practice of contouring all the land and summer following 15% or more each year, much of our crop failure and wind erosion trouble will be over.

The new farm program really offers a bonus for the prevention of wind erosion in that payments are not to be made in cases where a farm blows to the extent that it becomes a hazard to adjoining farms.

Payments to farmers under the new soil conservation program are to be more than was at first thought possible.

Payments are to be made for a wider range of practices than was at first expected. As an example, there is to be a payment of 25c per acre for contour listing on all crop land up to the allowance for each farm regardless of whether a crop is grown on the land or not.

In other words a payment of 25c per acre may be earned for contouring the feed crop land as well as the land on which wheat is harvested. A payment of 50c per acre may be earned in growing sudan grass on the diverted land where it is listed on contour and the furrows maintained throughout the growing season.

A payment of 25c per acre may be earned for contour listing the diverted acreage in process of fallowing if wheat is seeded on contour.

Any help needed in working out details of compliance may be secured from the Community Committee or at the County Agent's office.

Mrs. Earl Stephenson visited her sister, Mrs. Ed Bailey of Carlsbad last week. Mrs. Bailey returned with her Sunday for a visit at the home of their mother, Mrs. Brent Taylor.

Tahoka Attorney Says Senator Best Citizen

LUBBOCK, May 3.—Senator Clint C. Small has been recommended for the position of West Texas "Outstanding Citizen No. 1."

The Amarillo legislator was named for the honor by Tom Garrard, Tahoka attorney, who wrote Charles A. Guy, editor of the Avalanche-Journal:

"You have been picking outstanding citizens of your city. Why not spread out a little and pick an outstanding citizen from the Plains country?"

"As Candidate No. 1, I would name C. C. Small of Amarillo. I have known Senator Small for some 25 or 30 years. During all these years, to my mind, he has been an outstanding citizen. As a kid in college, he was a good student and a good fellow. I think he is the best lawyer in Texas within 10 years of his age and all of his ability and energy have been expended in the last few years in behalf of West Texas.

"I know of no man who is more loyal to his section of the state, and no man who has been more loyal to the state at large than Senator Small. I know of no man who has done more for the entire state than he.

"I think that it is entirely fitting that he be designated as West Texas' outstanding citizen number one, and certainly it is placing credit where credit is due. What do you think?"

Judge Burney Slack has been unable to return to his office this week. He has been sick with mumps for the past two weeks.

F. W. Fischer Candidate Governor Discusses Taxes

F. W. Fischer of Tyler who is running for governor of Texas on the platform of paying old age pensions in full, is spreading his philosophy of taxing natural resources from one end of the state to the other.

"A new source of revenue means a new deal for Texas," he says. He thinks prosperity can be returned through taking the tax off of land and putting it on oil, gas, sulphur, etc. This new source of revenue would provide means of helping schools, highways, and agricultural interests and the Texas consumers of gasoline who are now having to pay a tax of 4 cents a gallon.

Fischer, an oil attorney who gained fame as a constitutional lawyer in the legal squabbles over the East Texas oil field, dealt the first death blow to NIRA when the United States Supreme Court upheld his contention against Section 9 (c) of the oil provision of the NIRA.

Fischer was born in West Virginia, spent his boyhood riding bronchos in southwestern Oklahoma, and later studied law on the farm. He is a Mason, a Methodist and a member of the American Legion.

ancing of loans on farms in the Panhandle.

F. T. Collins, representative of the Federal Land Bank, reminded delegates that the land bank has $16,000,000 invested in the 14 counties represented at the meeting. His faith in the erosion work under the Texas statute, he said, justifies re-financing of many loans where farmers are unable to pay up. He spoke in complimentary terms of the law, duplicated nowhere else in the nation.

Collins said he would begin with Dallam County immediately, working southward to include all the erosion districts.

Senator Small, asked to explain why all the counties had not been included with Dallas, Sherman, Moore, Oldham, Deaf Smith, and Hartley in getting the total tax rebate, said the law could not have been passed at all if others had been added. Ochiltree, Hansford and Lipscomb receive a 50 per cent rebate. Others now classified as erosion districts are Randall, Castro, Roberts, Hemphill, and Farmer.

"The legislature looks with disfavor upon tax diversions," Senator Small declared. "The bill was clothed in hopes that it offered an immediate aid to erosion problems. You must remember that I have 26 children to look after in my family. It was impossible to get them all in, so we took those in greatest need. Other legislators wouldn't stand for too much diversion."

"It would have killed the bill. I had to rush it through, gaining the rebate for as many as possible. Only by considerable horse-trading was I able to get the tax remission amendment through both houses."

"At least three other counties need to be given the rebate when an amendment to the bill is passed," he added. "We may be able to include those where the need is the most urgent."

The bill was written, Small said, because there was no state agency provided for dealing with soil erosion. The federal government, he recalled, has no power in local areas, therefore was handicapped in enforcing soil treatment. County courts, under provisions of the law, are a state agency.

The necessary funds for the work, Small said, can be obtained through co-operation with the state extension service and federal agencies.

"It must be done," he warned, "or federal land bank loans in the Panhandle won't be worth fifty cents on the dollar."

COMMISSIONERS COURT TO COMPLETE TAX EQUALIZATION

About 200 notices have been mailed to property owners of the county by the Commissioners Court in making equalization of tax values. The court will be in session next Monday to hear protests of any changes in valuations.

While some property was raised in value, many property owners were lowered, and it is likely that the tax rolls will show a reduction in values of about $50,000 over the value of last year.

for a payment of $15 a month for all persons residing in Texas for the past 5 years and above 65 years of age, and only habitual drunkards, criminals, or inmates of state institutions to be excluded from pensions.

"Second—I favor substantial reduction of state expenses together with abolishment of all useless bureaus and commissions that are using taxpayers' money."

"Third—I favor the Townsend Old Age Plan which will eliminate the staggering sum of $2,500,000,000 per year for maintenance of poor houses in the 28 states, including Texas, now using this system. With more counties than any of the states now using the poor house system, Texas is paying approximately $89,000,000 annually of taxpayers' money for maintenance of poor houses alone. Abolition of these houses will release from social bondage approximately one million people and remove a blot that has stained the record of American civilization and will eliminate all charity drives for maintenance of the poor."

"Fourth—I favor a law demanding that all school books paid for by Texas taxpayers be printed and bound in Texas. From September 1st, 1920, to August 31st, 1935, Texas taxpayers have paid Eastern printers and binders, $26,813,938.28 for the printing and binding of textbooks. Had this work been done in Texas, it would have produced to printers and binders an annual payroll of $997,131.27. Within the past 15 years this would have amounted to $13,456,969.14. Fifty percent of the money spent for textbooks is for printing and binding. These figures are from Bulletin No. 350 issued by State Department of Education.

"Help me place this payroll in Texas and keep it there."

"Fifth—I favor a liberal appropriation for the West Texas State College at Canyon, the only state institution in the Panhandle."

"Sixth—I favor making the Palo Duro Canyon the outstanding park in Texas and believe the Legislature should find a way to obtain title to the property that is now being improved. Texas, with all of its resources and wealth, should be able to work out some solution of this problem that will be satisfactory to all concerned and when this is done the park will be one of the greatest assets in the Panhandle. I pledge my unstinted help in behalf of this program."
